Drawings

1. The drawings have been approved.

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Terms like serviceable, expendable nonexpendable render the scope of the claim unclear as to what standard are these terms applied since for one person the whole rocket system is expendable and for another it is not.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Davis (4796839) or Reichert et al (3313112). First it is noted that it is well known to parts from one vehicle to be used on another, and the claims do not make clear when this is taking place, ie on the original assembly line or on subsequent missions on different boosters. It is also noted that even on reusable boosters there comes a time in their service life that they become expendable.

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to reuse various parts on the boosters of Davis of Reichert et al as this is a well known expedient.
